

Andrea Roane Biography

2017

Andrea Roane has been with Gannett/TEGNA-owned WUSA 9 since 1981. She has anchored every news program from morning to afternoon, and late night. She currently anchors WUSA 9 News at Noon and is the station's Health reporter. WUSA 9 is the CBS affiliate station that serves the DC, Maryland and Virginia region.

A multi-EMMY and GRACIE Award winner, Andrea has covered a wealth of hard news stories, from politics, the arts, education, religion, and sports to women's health and empowerment issues.

In the DMV, Andrea's commitment to women's health and community service has been recognized with countless national and local awards including:

- The 2015 Board of Governors Award by the National Academy of Television Arts & Sciences, National Capital Chesapeake Bay Chapter.
- In 2014 Andrea was inducted into the DC Hall of Fame
- In 2006, she was named a Washingtonian of the Year by Washingtonian Magazine

Among her many community affiliations, Andrea is a member of the Metropolitan (DC) Chapter of the Links, Incorporated, a lifetime member of the NAACP and the National Council of Negro Women, a co-chair of the Kennedy Center's Community & Friends Board; a member of the Capital Breast Care Center Community Advisory Council, a Trustee Emeritus of the Catholic University of America; a Dame of the Sovereign Military Order of Malta; a Sustaining Director of the Prevent Cancer Foundation; and a member of the International Women's Forum-DC.

Andrea holds an undergraduate degree in Secondary Education and a graduate degree in Drama & Communications from LSU, New Orleans, which is now the University of New Orleans.

Andrea and her husband, Michael Skehan, live in Washington, DC. They have a daughter and son.