

Ida E. Jones – biographical statement

Ida E. Jones, Ph.D. is life member of 20+ years in ASALH. Throughout her membership, Dr. Jones has served on the luncheon committee, Executive Council, worked at the 14th street office and contributed to resuscitating the Negro History Bulletin before it transitioned to Black History Bulletin. She is a member of the Bethel Dukes Branch. She is currently the University Archivist at Morgan State University. A tireless advocate for ASALH and HBCU's, so much so that she is working to link Morgan and the Roland McConnell branch together. She is a published author and book reviewer. Her research interests are African American biography, denominational church history. She is avid fan of documentary films and historical fiction. She is a consummate scholar who believes deeply in the words of Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune who stated "power must walk hand in hand with humility and the intellect must have a soul."
