Carlton E. Wilson Class of 2027

Current Employer:

North Carolina Central University

Professional Background:

I have served as dean of three colleges and chair of the department of History at North Carolina Central University. I have served on several boards and executive councils including chair of the Board of the Durham Museum of History and a member of the Board of Governors of the University of North Carolina Press. I earned the PhD in British History from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, a MA from The Ohio State University, and the BA from North Carolina Central University.

Major Accomplishments:

I am tenured member of the faculty in the department of History at North Carolina Central University. As a university administrator I have been successful in recruiting, retaining and graduating students. I have developed curricular and new degree programs in the Humanities and Social Sciences. As an academic dean I have experience in successful fundraising and working with academic and professional organizations, advisory boards, review boards, and program accreditations.

Previous Service to ASALH:

I am a lifetime member of ASALH and North Carolina Central University is an institutional member of ASALH. I have served as a member of the Executive Council and Vice President for Programs.

ASALH MISSION

To promote, research, preserve, interpret and disseminate information about Black life, history and culture to the global community.
